Council Update – Public Displays

Mr. Davidson introduced members from the City Attorney's office and Officers Pedersen and Robinson who had responsibility overseeing sex crimes that take place in Orem.

Sergeant Pedersen said most of the investigations they handled were split up into six areas. Since January 1, 2014, the 3 officers in the section had taken 150 calls. Many of the physical child abuse cases had to be sent to school resource officers due to the heavy work load. They concentrated their time on things like rapes (both adults and children), child pornography, etc.

He indicated that when they had first seen the PacSun pictures, they found them reminiscent of something from Victoria Secret or the tamer pictures from the Sports Illustrated swimsuit edition. Pictures like the PacSun advertisements were very common. In reviewing the City Code, they did not think they qualified for prosecution. The Attorneys Office reviewed State Code and found an item that the City could possibly use. The officers considered how doing that would impact future investigations and determined it would increase their workload because of the need to investigate many more stores.

Sergeant Robinson likened it to catching a speeder. An officer would have to visually estimate the speed and then confirm it with radar. Drivers had to be going ten to fifteen miles over the speed limit. Using that analogy, the PacSun pictures did not apply. He noted that there had been many similar cases that the courts had not upheld.

Sergeant Pedersen observed that immoral and illegal were not always the same thing.

Mr. Stephens said most of the Council had seen the news reports about the issue. Mrs. Cox asked the City to prosecute PacSun. He explained that, typically, the charging decision would be by the City's prosecutors without input from the other attorneys. Mr. Stephens said he requested that all the attorneys in the office screen it. All agreed with the decision not to prosecute the case. He called Mrs. Cox and notified her of their decision. His staff felt there was already a frenzy around the case, and they did not want to give PacSun anymore free advertising. They had prepared a statement explaining their decision not to file criminal charges, saying that while they did not endorse the display, they did not believe it constituted a criminal offense. The letter had not yet been distributed.

Mr. Stephens then reviewed case law, the current State statute (including the higher standard when dealing with children), and the City Code. He said Mrs. Cox argued that the shirts broke both State and City ordinance. While the shirt did show a partially nude buttock, none of the shirts showed sexual conduct. Mr. Stephens said he understood that Mrs. Cox believed they had made the wrong decision. His staff disagreed.

Mayor Brunst said he found the shirts offensive but understood the attorneys' decision. He offered time to Mrs. Cox to speak. She declined.

Mr. Seastrand asked if Mr. Stephens felt the City's current ordinance was in line with the State's or if something needed to be changed. Mr. Stephens said they had discussed that and have some suggestions for things that could be done to improve the City's ordinance, but they did not think those would have changed their decision on this issue.

Mr. Spencer asked if there was a warning system to notify stores. Mr. Stephens said, if they received a complaint about displays that did not quite meet the law, they would approach the store about removing the signs.

Mr. Macdonald asked if it would be treated differently if someone tried to walk around the mall dressed like the woman in the picture.

Mr. Earl said someone posed in a picture would be different than someone walking around. Jake Summers, prosecutor, indicated that someone walking around the mall would be charged with lewdness which was a different law.

Mayor Brunst reflected that society was made up of laws. It could be difficult when there were different interpretations, but the City must work within the realms of the law and how they were applied.

Report – Sleepy Ridge Golf Course Committee

Golden Holt gave an annual report on the activity at Sleepy Ridge Golf Course.

- The golf course opened in 2008, and Sleepy Ridge had a few years of down-revenue but private funding subsidies helped Sleepy Ridge to weather the economic recession.
- Over the last two years, the revenues have provided the golf course to break even and turn a small profit.
- Home construction was going up around Sleepy Ridge, which lended to long-term benefits for the golf course.
- Discussions are happening regarding the Lakeside trail development which is being considered alongside Utah Lake.
- Because of the bad economic time, Sleepy Ridge would be approaching the City to extend its contract.
- Unlike all other municipal golf courses in Utah County, Sleep Ridge has never taken any subsidy from the City.
- Their revenue plan was to slowly raise rates commensurate with market competitiveness and to continue providing a good product in a fair location.

Mayor Brunst asked Mr. Holt about how the additional businesses were doing. Mr. Holt said the income from the office space the rental of the reception center had sustained the golf course.

Mayor Brunst asked if Sleepy Ridge was working with senior citizens in any way. Mr. Holt reported that due to the seniors' pace of play, providing resources had been difficult. Sleepy Ridge did not provide a senior punch card with senior rates, though organizing a senior league probably would not be aggressively pursued this year.

Mr. Davidson said the City had always maintained a good relationship with Mr. Holt and Sleepy Ridge Golf Course. Mr. Davidson noted the unique nature of that cooperation and commended those who had the foresight to craft this relationship. With no out-of-pocket cost to the City, many acres of open space were being protected. Orem should do what was possible to keep the public/private partnership healthy.

Mr. Macdonald asked how long the lease was with the City. Mr. Holt said the lease had been amended in 2008, and that they were five years into a thirty-nine-year lease with the City.

CITY MANAGER APPOINTMENTS

Mr. Davidson asked for the City Council's advice and consent on his appointments of Brenn Bybee, serving as the Assistant City Manager, and for Charlene Crozier, serving as the Orem Public Library Director Development Services Director.

Mr. Macdonald moved to provide the Council's advice and consent on the appointment Brenn Bybee and Charlene Crozier. Mr. Seastrand seconded the motion. Those voting aye: Hans Andersen, Margaret Black, Richard Brunst, Tom Macdonald, Mark E. Seastrand, and David Spencer. The motion passed.

Donna Weaver, City Recorder, gave the oath of office to Mr. Bybee and Mrs. Crozier.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES

Time was allotted for the public to express their ideas, concerns, and comments on items not on the agenda. Those wishing to speak should have signed in prior to the meeting, and comments were limited to three minutes or less.

John Reinhard, resident, asked the Council to consider providing a form on the online bill pay system that would allow those wishing to contribute monetarily to specific departments within the City the opportunity to do so. Mr. Reinhard inquired about any updates on the possible partnership with Macquarie.

Barbara Petty, resident, spoke regarding the PacSun T-shirt incident. She said she disagreed with the City Attorney's Office on the issue and believed a letter should be sent to the store owners and to the mall, stating the material represented was illegal and should be stopped.

Wayne Burr shared a PowerPoint presentation regarding the proclamation of a day of prayer. He suggested that by signing the proclamation the Council would not designating this day as religious, but rather an opportunity for prayer.

Karen Zea, resident, spoke to the PacSun T-shirt incident saying it might be covered under the City's nuisance ordinance. Orem citizens under the age of eighteen should be protected. She did not believe the City was addressing the issue appropriately.

Judy Cox, resident, expressed disappointment in the City Attorneys' decision to not pursue criminal charges in reference to the PacSun T-shirt incident. She understood that the City's hands were tied due to precedent. Ms. Cox said she hopes that others will feel empowered to speak up as consumers.

Vauna Davis voiced concern with the impression received from the City Attorneys' PacSun decision. She said she thought the shirts were harmful for minors viewing them and believed the Council was working hard to justify the decision to not take action against PacSun.

Sharon Anderson said she was concerned Orem would be perceived as tolerating something in the PacSun ads that would not be allowed to be broadcast. Orem was setting a horrible example of what Family City, USA meant. She said she believed the City could do other things in lieu of criminal charges and requested the City Council to issue a statement as the community looks to the Council for example.

Dennis Hunsaker, resident, said he believed this t-shirt issue was a matter of great importance. He then went on to share a personal experience relating to this issue with calendars in the work place and likened it to the idea of the City employing a "double standard."

SCHEDULED ITEMS

6:30 P.M. PUBLIC HEARING

RESOLUTION – CONDITIONAL USE PERMIT - Conditional Use Permit approval for a detached garage at 488 East 1320 North in the PD-14 zone

Jason Bench, Planning Division Manager, presented an applicant request for a Street Vacation. Currently, 900 South is a dead end without a connection to 800 East. Access to 900 South is from 750 East with 750 East connecting to 800 South. 900 South was dedicated to the City in 1977 with the recordation of Liston Subdivision, Plat "A", which was a one lot subdivision.

University Mall now requests that the City vacate 900 South from 800 East to 750 East. Typically, upon the vacation of a dedicated street, half the street area reverts to the property on one side and the other half reverts to the property on the other side. In this case, because the street was originally dedicated with Lot 1 of Liston Plat "A", the vacation of the entire street will automatically revert to the owner of Lot 1. University Mall owns Lot 1 of Liston Plat "A" as well as all of the property surrounding this portion of 900 South. The vacation should also reserve required and existing public utility easements.

University Mall LC proposes to use the vacated street area as a private access for their residential apartment development. This would make 750 East a dead end and will require the Mall to install an approved turn around.

The City Council may vacate the portion of 900 South Street between 750 East and 800 East if it finds (1) there is good cause for the vacation, and (2) the vacation will not be detrimental to the public interest. Additionally, the owners should be required to record a subdivision plat that incorporates the street vacation into the rest of their property and includes required and existing public utility easements.

Mr. Macdonald asked if anyone was living in the properties along this street. Mr. Bench indicated those properties had been sold, and the present Woodbury representative said the existing residents would be vacated by April 1, 2014.

Mr. Andersen asked if the City would be receiving any financial gain from vacating this street. Mr. Bench said this property was dedicated by the property owner years ago, and in the event the City Council approves the street vacation, the property would go back to the owner. The property is given to the City for use as long as necessary. If the city no longer needs the use of the property, the property reverts to the owner. This would be different if the property was “sold” to the City, but in this case the property was dedicated to the City for city use.

With no further comments or questions from the Council, Mayor Brunst opened the public hearing.

Ammon Avens, resident, voiced his frustration with the proposed street vacation. He said his family owned property in the area that would be difficult to develop should the Council approve the street vacation.

Taylor Candland, resident suggested the vacation should take place only after the PacSun store was no longer a tenant at the University Mall.

Mayor Brunst closed the public hearing.

Mr. Macdonald asked Mr. Avens to clarify his request. Mr. Avens suggested the City should connect the road to 800 East instead of vacating the property, and keep this road public.

Mayor Brunst called for a motion.

Mr. Andersen asked if he could make a motion to check to see if the City could make money on the street vacation. Mr. Bench reiterated that the property had been dedicated to the City, and when vacated, the property had to revert to the property owner who could do as they would with it.

Mrs. Black moved that the City Council, by ordinance, vacate approximately 0.26 acres of 900 South Street located between 750 East and 800 East. RB seconded the motion. Those voting aye: Councilmembers Margaret Black, Richard Brunst, Tom Macdonald, Mark E. Seastrand. Those voting nay: David Spencer and Hans Andersen. The motion passed, 4:2.

DISCUSSION – UTOPIA Operational Expenditures

Mayor Brunst requested that this item be placed on the agenda to (1) bring an update to the citizens with regard to UTOPIA; and (2) to bring discussion to the Council on the operating expense and operating losses of UTOPIA. This was not an action item on the agenda, but rather an opportunity to invite conversation and discussion between the Council.

Mayor Brunst reported on the legislative process taking place with Senator Valentine. Through that, the mayors of the eleven cities involved in UTOPIA and UIA were requested to meet to discuss the legislation. The first of those meetings provided opportunity for the management of UTOPIA to make presentations on information regarding the operations of UTOPIA. Two meetings were spent relaying information and discussing what was presented.

Mayor Brunst drew attention to Macquarie being in the process of bringing forward the results of the first milestone in less than a month. At that time, the investigations of Macquarie would be made known. When the results were revealed, the cities will have a 30-day period to accept Macquarie's model before Macquarie's soft response turned hard. At that point, the cities would then have 60 days to formally accept or reject Macquarie model. The expense involved with the first milestone was approximately $450,000. If the first milestone was approved, the momentum would continue to the second milestone, which had an approximate duration of 7-to-10 weeks. The expense for the second milestone was $950,000. There were 4 milestones total, with a total cost approximately $4 million in consulting and investigation fees. Milestone 3 and 4 would involve financial commitment.

Each UTOPIA community had the right to accept or reject milestones one or two. Some cities might accept Macquarie's model and others might not. In order to accept the proposal by way of referendum, the City Council would have to pass some legislation that the referendum would take place in such a manner to allow a vote prior to Macquarie ending its ninety-day period. That was not a feasible option due to timing. The last option was to carry out a public poll or opinion vote. Mayor Brunst suggested a public survey to be conducted by BYU to get a feel for where Orem citizens stood on the topic. In order to make the proper decision the Council needed to know what the citizens are thinking.

Mayor Brunst indicated that UIA had picked up an additional $60,000 in revenue. UTOPIA requested the member cities to pay toward operational losses of UIA and UTOPIA. That figure was approximately $3.3 million per year. UTOPIA was involved in some legal suits, particularly one against the Rural Utility Service, which was a $120 million lawsuit brought by UTOPIA. Settlement terms for that suit would be requested in the coming weeks, and if those terms were not accepted, the law suit would go to trial in mid-July 2014. The trial carried a potential cost of $2 million.

Mayor Brunst added that previously $250,000 had been approved as a loan for operational expenses. This loan was to be paid back, with interest, within a certain number of years.

Sometime thereafter another $575 million had been passed in loans for operational expenses. All cities had been requested to pay with money separate from bond funds.

Mayor Brunst reviewed the current legislation put forth by Senator John Valentine. The Mayor said a law had been passed stipulating the inability of new bonds to be used to pay for operational expense after the first twelve months of said bond. That only applied for taxable bonds. Mayor Brunst indicated tax-exempt bonds were less expensive for the City than the taxable bond counterpart.

This bond information was used to illustrate the concern and disparity with the involved UTOPIA cities paying for operational expenses. Mayor Brunst said that of the eleven UTOPIA cities, one city only had three connections to UTOPIA and was therefore not paying any operational expense. Of the remaining ten cities involved with UTOPIA, four cities were paying operational expenses, and six were not. Orem had paid those its commitment through January 2014.

Mayor Brunst then asked for Council input and discussion on the question of why Orem should continue paying operational expenses when other cities were not. He cautioned that, if operational expenses and losses were not paid, UTOPIA will be out of money come July 2014.

Mr. Andersen asked what the City could do for the citizens with regard to a utility fee as it pertained to the Macquarie model. He said he believed it was time the City provided the citizens with information. He asked Mr. Stephens what would happen if the City opted for an initiative to approve/deny Macquarie's model. Mr. Stephens said each Council member could decide to vote how they want, but the law only went into effect when the citizens voted on it. The signatures alone did not create the law.

Mayor Brunst said the reality was the City Council could vote to join with Macquarie, or they could opt not to. If the City decided not to join, the City could join at a later time, though that would cost more money.

Mayor Brunst expressed his opinion that he would like to see Orem continue to pay the operational expenses. His suggestion would be to fund the deficit with bond funds in order to allow one more year to determine a solution.

Mr. Spencer said he would be in favor of utilizing the bond money.

Mr. Seastrand said the intent of bond money was to generate growth and revenue, which would, in turn, cover operational costs. Taking away from these funds would reduce revenue-generating opportunities. He said shutting down UTOPIA was not a viable option and acknowledged that there was an element of inequality within the UIA. Mr. Seastrand said he was unaware of the options being considered by UIA to address the inequality within the UTOPIA cities.

Mayor Brunst said part of the operational losses were litigation costs. If there came a settlement, the awarded settlement would go to the cities who helped pay for the litigation. To this, Mr.

Seastrand said he could support Mayor Brunst's recommendation to utilize bond funds to carry UTOPIA one more year.

Mr. Andersen said giving more money would only extend the inevitable and expressed he was opposed to giving any more money.

Mr. Spencer asked how much Orem had spent on litigation. Mayor Brunst said, collectively, UTOPIA had spent approximately $500,000 on litigation, and if UTOPIA were to win the lawsuit, the award from would be divided between the cities that had helped fund the litigation through paying their portion of operation expenses.

Mr. Macdonald said the discussion was something that affects the entire city of Orem. From a business owner perspective, it was difficult to sell a business that was losing money. The real question was what the City would need to do to turn UTOPIA into a winner. He acknowledged that they were on the verge of potentially winning a $100 million dollar lawsuit, which winnings could go to pay some of the expenses back. He was not in favor of strangling a thing that has cost so much. Mr. Macdonald affirmed that there are bridges yet to be crossed on the issue.

Mrs. Black said she believed the wise course of action would be to continue to fund operational expenses, though she did not favor the idea to use contingency money to see where the City was at in a few months. The bond should not be involved. She asked Mayor Brunst what other mayors were considering bond money.

Mayor Brunst said some were and some were not, just as some cities were will to pay operating expenses and some were not. He personally believed it would be a good idea to use the bond because the money would be difficult to gather at the end of the fiscal year.

Mrs. Black encouraged Mayor Brunst to continue to have conversations with other involved cities to determine what their methods would be in coming up with the funds to address the deficit. She noted that any potential utility fees were not part of the discussion at this time, and she would rather discuss real facts than numbers pulled from a hat.

Mr. Andersen asked how long the lawsuit had been going on. Mayor Brunst said the thought it was since 2010. He also reiterated that if the law suit is won, the cities who participated in the litigation would share any award money.

Mr. Andersen and Mrs. Black spoke to the utility fee being a specific figure. Mrs. Black pointed out that the current discussion did not involve utility fees.

Mayor Brunst said no one knew what a utility fee might be. That information would be part of Macquarie's results after they completed milestone one.

CONTINUATION OF PERSONAL APPEARANCES

James Fawcet voiced concern that the lawsuit would take forever, and he felt the idea of putting more money into UTOPIA should not even be brought up.

CITY MANAGER INFORMATION ITEMS

Mr. Davidson reported on the joint City Council meeting held with the Alpine School District.

Mr. Davidson gave a brief overview of an agenda item coming to the Council on March 25, 2014, regarding the separation of the Public Safety Department into separate police and fire departments. Ideally that separation would take effect on July 1, 2014. He presented this item to the council in advance to give him an opportunity to actively recruit a police chief before the change would take effect.

Mr. Macdonald addressed Judy Cox's statement. He believed the City was doing what was right and reiterated that competent legal counsel has instructed the Council that pursuing the issue further would not be in the best interest of the City from a sound financial perspective.

Mr. Spencer agreed with Mr. Macdonald. Mr. Spencer suggested the possibility of the City Council sending a letter indicating the dislike for the display.

Mr. Davidson asked the Woodbury representative to take the information and concerns brought forth in the meeting back to the Woodbury Corporation.

Mr. Seastrand added that the City Council was not a judicial body and did have authority in how the law was enforced. The City Council did have the opportunity to look at current laws and improve the laws already in place.

Mayor Brunst said he felt offended by what he saw in the PacSun ads and would like Orem to remain "Family City USA." He said it was important to preserve a moral standard. He was unsure if the Council writing a letter would be deemed appropriate, but he said he could look over the possibility.

Mr. Davidson spoke to the proclamation presented by Mr. Burr. He advised the Council to be mindful of the recommendation made by the City Attorney relative to the proclamation presented. Mrs. Black, Mr. Macdonald and Mayor Brunst all spoke to the desire of supporting the request in the most appropriate way.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. Andersen moved to adjourn the meeting. Mr. Spencer seconded the motion. Those voting aye: Councilmembers Hans Andersen, Margaret Black, Richard Brunst, Tom Macdonald, Mark E. Seastrand, and David Spencer. The motion passed unanimously.

The meeting adjourned at 8:03 p.m.
